

AGE LIMIT CHANGED FOR NIGHT SCHOOL AT TECH

Boys 14 Years of Age Now May Study There—School Opens Wednesday

The age limit for eligibility to attend the free night school at the Georgia School of Technology, which will open Wednesday evening of this week, has been changed from sixteen to fourteen years. This means that anybody who is fourteen years of age or older can take advantage of the courses. The age limit works only one way, and there is no limit in the other direction. Some of the students in years past have been gray-haired men. The reason for changing the limit from sixteen to fourteen years is explained by Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of Georgia Tech, and Prof. J. N. G. Nesbit, who has direct charge of the night school.

Many boys conclude their grammar school work at about fourteen years of age and go to work. If these youngsters let pass two years without pursuing their studies further, they will be less likely to take them up again, whereas, by arranging it so that they can work and at the same time go directly from grammar school into the Tech night school, their habits of study are unbroken.

Enrollment and registration for this year's session began on Monday morning and is the latest up to date in the history of the institution. The night school is a regular department of the Georgia Tech, and students who enroll are given advantages for study in the Tech shops. The courses which may be taken at the Tech include mechanical drawing, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, mathematics, chemistry, English and others. It is believed that making the age limit lower will increase materially the attendance of the school.

AUTO ROBBERS STEAL JOHN S. OWENS' CAR

Owner Left Machine Standing in Front of House, and Now It's Gone

The gang of thieves who for the past two weeks have been the automobile owners of Atlanta on a nervous tension, made another good haul Monday afternoon, when they slipped a car away from the residence of John S. Owens, of the Central Bank and Trust corporation.

The car, a Detroit electric of a late model, was left standing in front of the Owens residence, 31 West Eleventh street late in the afternoon. The thieves quietly made away with the machine, while members of the family were in the house, and no trace of the car has yet been found by the police. The number of the machine was 2477.

LOCAL SCOTS FEED ON "HAGGIS" NEXT FRIDAY

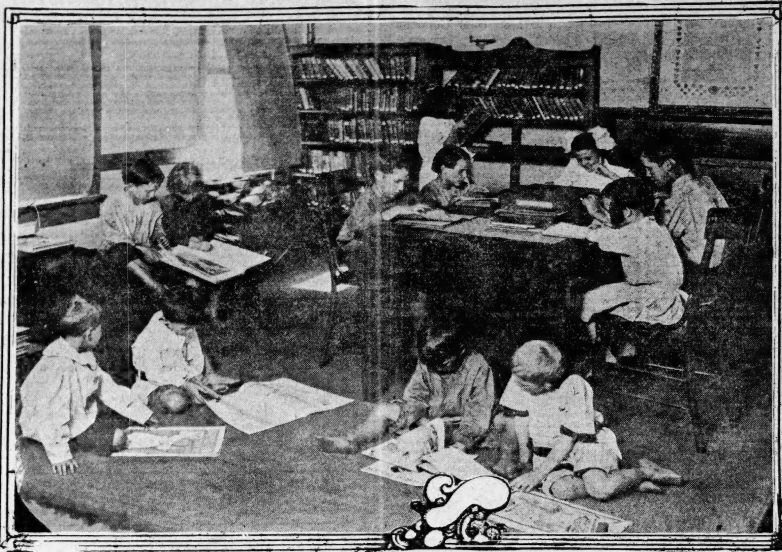

Cards announcing a special meeting of importance of the Atlanta Scottish association have been mailed the Scots of Atlanta who are requested to gather at the Burns club house at the end of the Soldiers Home car line at "eight o'clock Friday evening."

While business of importance is to be discussed, the official cards show that all of the time will not be devoted to song and talk, for each member is requested to bring another Scot with him to help out the "Haggis."

Askew, secretary, and E. J. Collins, treasurer. The superintendent's annual report was read and adopted. Miss Beattie Holtzendorf, of Atlanta, was elected to the class of English and history in the high school made vacant by the death of Miss Wells. Mrs. C. E. Patisso, of West Point, was elected supervisory teacher.

CHILDREN OF THE MILL DISTRICTS ENJOY BOOKS AND MAGAZINES IN LIBRARIES

These are a few of hundreds of children who go regularly to the branch libraries established by the Carnegie library in factory neighborhoods. The photograph shows a group of bright, pretty children in the reading room at Wesley House, near the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills. Wesley House has had a library for some time, and numbers over 150 children among its patrons. The Carnegie library only recently added books to this reading room.

Starved Minds of the Little Factory Boys and Girls Devour Fairy Stories and Animal Tales With an Eager-ness That the Little People of Happier Worlds Have Never Shown

Once upon a time, as the children say, libraries were for grown folk, and those who loved to browse among the books were called scholars or "bookworms." But in recent years libraries, especially the public libraries, have been devoted as much to the use of children as to grown-ups; and, in Atlanta especially, the children's room is the most delightful part of the library.

For years the Carnegie library has specialized on making books attractive to children, and since the children's room was opened the attendance has grown wonderfully. Pictures, stories, myths, every kind or feature that will attract the minds of the little folk, form a part of the library work in the children's room, and the results have been so amazingly successful that the library is extending the scope of its work.

A short while ago Miss Wooten decided to carry the children's work still further, and by opening branch libraries in the mill districts, give the poorer children an opportunity to learn the fairy tales and hear the stories that the children in the central part of the city enjoy.

Several small libraries have been opened, one at the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills and several others in settlement homes. That they were wanted is proven by the eagerness with which the children seek to get the books. Miss Bradley and Miss Whitaker, of the Carnegie staff, have had charge of the mill libraries, and are making friends with the children there. One day they took some books to a new library and were busy talking to the children. Miss Bradley felt some one tugging at her skirt, but at first did not notice it. Finally, however, she glanced down to see what the matter was, and a thin, piping little voice said, "Woman, I want one of them books."

"It is pathetic to see the eagerness of those children," said the librarian. "Why, some of them take the picture books and set them in the window and cling to them, they're so glad to have them."

All the delightful animal stories, the fairy stories, the children's play stories, are among the books sent out, and they are always in demand.

"But the children are not the only ones who benefit by the books. The mothers and the fathers have displayed a keen interest in the reading room, and are as frequent patrons of the libraries as are the children."

"We want now," said Miss Wooten, "to install libraries inside the mills, so that the grown people who work there may have access to books in recreation hours."

The idea came through a workman at one of the mills. He went to Miss Wooten and asked her was there not some way in which books might be placed in the mills, and Miss Wooten has taken the matter up with owners.

The library will be glad to establish such libraries wherever the owners are willing, and by next year Miss Wooten hopes to be a number of reading rooms in the mills.

Here's a Volume You Won't Find Idle So Longas "Ginger" Goes

Number four of volume one of "Piedmont Parables" is off the press and its subscribers (who pay nothing for it) have got it and gone to the secluded corners to read it. Publisher Bill Parkhurst, its editor, has put over some good ones in the latest issue of this unique magazine, issued "spasmodically" when he has nothing else to do.

"There was a young lady named Aster; Her hobby fit tight like plaster; She took a big sneeze and felt quick a breeze— Then she knew she had met with disaster."

Some of the philosophy which Editor Bill offers to his readers is worth while. "Every woman is a natural born gambler and likes to take a chance. Look at some of the things they marry, say he, and again he opines 'Any old man can stay out of debt, but it takes a smart man to stay in it.'"

Take Ea-Tone, the Great Liver Laxative and Tonic.

Ea-Tone, the world's great liver laxative and tonic is the result of the scientific compounding of various vegetable growths conducive to the regulation of man's organic system—the liver being the fountain head of this system, is the attacking point. By the use of this vegetable remedy—Ea-Tone—the juices and secretions are purified, impurities are dissolved and passed off in natural channels—the system is purified, but thoroughly washed and renewed.

Ea-Tone does the work of strengthening and supplying certain juices that may have been suppressed by neglect or the taking of drastic and harsh compounds. The sallow complexion, skin blotch, catarrh of the bowels and other similar maladies are the result of an inactive liver which Ea-Tone will correct. MOTHER DEFENDS GIRL ARRESTED FOR SPOONING

Mrs. Nathan W. Weistman
Says Her Daughter Was Engaged to the Young Man

Mrs. Nathan W. Weistman, of 290 East Fair street, mother of the girl when the police arrested on the capital steps with her sweetheart, and whom the recorder dismissed because there was no evidence of any improper conduct, has come out in a statement defending her daughter against the attack which has been made upon her character, both in the pulpit and elsewhere, by persons endeavoring to justify the police.

Mrs. Weistman states that her daughter is engaged to be married to the young man, and was engaged long before the police arrested them on the capital steps. Their only reason for going to the capital steps was that the girl's father, being opposed to her marriage to the young man, told the young man not to come to see her again.

WHAT MOTHER SAYS.
Mrs. Weistman says: My daughter's character has been attacked that she is almost ashamed to go on the streets. I can't see why it is people want to perpetually attack her and tell false stories of her. It is outrageous that a minister should say the most things in such manner. She was kind and the case was dismissed against her. It was just that it be dismissed. She had done nothing wrong. They should have dealt with the policeman who had her into court.

Irreparable harm has been done my child. Scandalous stories have been spread about her all over town. She didn't do wrong. She wouldn't. She was at home—there was nowhere else to go. They went at 9:30 o'clock to the capital and hadn't been there but a few minutes when the policeman came and arrested them.

The police have done her injury. During the trial I understood that there wasn't anything said about the immoral conduct which the chief of police read to the commission meeting in the report of the policeman who made the arrest. They didn't even testify at trial that they had seen a girl. All they said was they had discovered Dora and they sitting on a paper spread on the steps in the dark.

They said that she was in a semi-reclining position and that the boy was sitting upright. I think it was testified that he had an arm around her. But beyond that, I'm sure nothing more was out in court.

Broyles wouldn't have dismissed the case. In the commission, however, through a long, dirty report was read out about the conduct of the two, and I'm sure that it wasn't a bit true.

GRACE METHODIST CHURCH
Dr. Jones Received 124 New Members Into the Church Sunday Morning

The revival at Grace Methodist church, whose special services closed a week ago, had its climax on Sunday morning in a camp meeting scene. Dr. C. C. Jones, announced to congregation that filled every seat in the lower floor, Sunday school and galleries that he had received 124 new members for membership.

Delivering a sermon he then baptized thirty-two adults and administered anointing on profession of faith and sixty-one by certificate.

The 110 new members were arranged down the aisles and in front of the altar, and to sing the hymns the entire congregation made a processional along the lines and gave the shout of welcome to the new members.

During the present ecclesiastical year of ten months Dr. Jones has added 191 members to Grace church, and during his pastorate of twenty-two months he has increased the roll 322, thus giving Grace church over 1,500 members, and making it one of the largest congregations in the city.

UNION $3.35 $4 FOR MEN

AT THE FORSYTH THIS WEEK

IN LOCAL THEATERS

Theater are written by members of The Journal staff. All the sketches appear in this column (with the exception of the theater management).

FORBETTER—Vaudeville.
LYRIC—Ethel Williams in "A Man's Game."
GRAND—Klimasool.
RIPOD—"The Man of Mystery."

Those who like playlets will like the bill at the Forsyth this week. The bill is a pretty good bill anyway, but the three sketches listed are the features of the performance. Two are fair and the third is delicious.

When Bernard Reinhold appeared at the grand last winter in "Dinkelpop's Christmas" he and his sketch were hailed as the last word in the quaintest of German comedy. But Reinhold has gone himself one better this time in "How Hofmeister Did It." Rupert, Huchse, wrote the little sketch and couldn't have done it better if he had been writing it directly for Reinhold and his company.

Any one who has ever seen a real Dutch-American family, the simple-hearted fun-loving people who have found the joy of living in the things of every day, will recognize them again in Hofmeister. He, gutsy, stout, and hearty, he sturdily sweethearts. How Hofmeister married Fritz and Gretchen in spite of their parents is a typical example of genuine German life. There is no sham about the fact that Dutchman. If he says things pretty plainly sometimes he says them just because his grandfather did it before him, and if he thinks he ought to have grandchildren and tells Gretchen to marry him, why, it's just because the Hofmeisters have always had grandchildren.

"The Woman Who Knew" is another old favorite, with Mme. Besson and Charles Doolan, the leading roles. The story is a pathetic little sketch of a shrewd lawyer pitted against a shrewd woman. And the best part of it is the surprise that comes in at the end with a kick that takes the audience off its feet.

Another sketch is Ida Brooks Hunt in "The Singing Countess," featured by her encore of "My Hero," the song which she first in "The Chocolate Soldier," was the first to give the American stage public.

These three sketches are the backbone of this week's bill. The Big City Four sang some good quartette songs, and the Metropolitan Dancers scored a bit. But don't sit on the front row in this unless you want to "get sung to." Maybe you like it and maybe you don't. There's no accounting for tastes. The other acts on the bill were the Marvelous Grahams, who opened, and Martin Kennedy, blackface.

"A Man's Game," with Ethel Williams in the star role, opened a week's engagement at the Lyric theater Monday night and scored a big success. Owen Davis' play is a genuine dramatic offering, and the Lyric doubtless will play to crowded houses during the rest of the week.

The play deals with American life in it enough. It is the story of a masterful man who arises from sordid surroundings, only to find when he reaches the eminence that he is about to be dragged back by the wife who deserted him years before in the days of his poverty. It is the part of the wife—a woman who has tasted the dregs of life and who knows their bitterness—that Miss Williams plays. Her portrayal of the character was admirable. Edwin Walter, as the husband, was splendid. Harry L. Dunkinson, pleased as the former pugilist. Rita Harton, W. A. Whitcarr and Frank Herrens were very good.

SHOW SEASON OPENING CELEBRATED AT PIEDMONT

The opening of the theatrical season was duly and gaily celebrated at the cafe of the Piedmont hotel Monday evening.

The spirit which has made New Year's eve in New York famous, prevailed in the gaily decorated hotel cafe, which presented a scene not often to be witnessed so far away from the lights of Broadway.

Soon after the theaters closed the hundreds of more tables of the cafe were filled by diners wearing crepe paper caps, and it was long after midnight when the gay diners commenced to summon their "taxi's."

The Piedmont's new orchestra composed of five young women musicians, proved very popular, as did the six singers who helped make the evening gay.

SLEUTHS HAVE CLUE TO PHONE GIRL MYSTERY

Edna Nix, sixteen years of age, pretty telephone operator who disappeared from her home, 418 Chestnut street, last Saturday, is believed to be walking toward the home of her uncle in Milton county. She was seen Sunday afternoon by the chauffeur of an automobile bus traveling along the road a short distance beyond Roswell. This information was communicated to Chief of Police Beavers Tuesday morning, and he wired to Milton county officials to apprehend the girl.

Miss Nix, who was employed at the Southern Bell Telephone exchange, left her home Saturday as usual, but did not return. Her mother appealed to the detective department Monday. From the fact that she disappeared several months ago, and was found at the home of her uncle a week later, it is thought that she is making her way there now.

IF HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS, "CASCARETS"

Clean your liver and waste-clogged bowels tonight! Feel bully!

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleanser up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by moving with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Geography, School Children and Things to Eat

TO ATLANTA SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS:

They have a new way of teaching geography in some schools these days.

Instead of starting out with a lot of hard new names about strange new places, they begin with the very town they live in.

"Where do we live, John?" the teacher will say.

And John will answer that they live in Atlanta or Chicago or San Francisco, or wherever it is.

Then they set to work to study that place. The teacher has a map showing the streets, the wards, the suburbs, the parks, the river or the waterfront (if they have one) and all the places of interest in and about.

The children learn to locate all these places. They learn all about the city itself—how many people live there, how many factories it has, what these factories make, who the city officers are, and all that sort of thing.

When they are thoroughly familiar with their city, by studying it, visiting its interesting places, making maps of it and writing compositions about it, the teacher has them take up their own county, state, and so on.

The idea in this plan of teaching geography is to know about HOME first.

HOME is the best place in the world, anyhow. Everybody is proud of his home town—or should be. It's a splendid thing to have one that you can be proud of, isn't it?

How much do you know about ATLANTA?

How proud of ATLANTA are you? How glad are you that you live here and that you can be loyal to your city?

Did you know that right here in ATLANTA we manufacture some of the best things to eat and drink that you can buy anywhere on earth?

Don't you think that everybody in ATLANTA who loves the city and wants to see it bigger and better, should eat ATLANTA-MADE foods?

You see, boys and girls, we run our factories and employ hundreds of people to work in them. These people spend their earnings right here in Atlanta. They buy what they need and their money helps everybody's business.

If your father is a merchant or a doctor or a dentist or a property owner or a mechanic, or in any other line of business, he gets some of the benefit of the money that other people spend.

And the more business he does, the better things are for everybody. See?

Nothing helps a city more than its good factories. If they are run right and make good goods, they are a great benefit to everybody.

Our factories are run right and they make GOOD GOODS. We are PURE FOOD folks. We are HOME FOLKS!

Don't you think these are fine, first-class reasons why YOUR folks should buy our goods? Talk about this at home. Suggest it to mother and father. Tell them the grocer-man has our goods. Get them to order these goods.

You boys and girls will be the citizens by and by and you surely want your city to be prosperous and important.

We are writing you this letter because you can help a whole lot NOW by thinking about this and "talking up" Atlanta goods.

This is one of the finest ways in which you show your loyalty to your city.

Won't you do it?

 Mr. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury,
 Says That the Government's Two Per Cent
 Bonds Are Worth "His Sh--"
 BY JOHN M. OKSIFORD

National banks have the right to issue their own notes to serve as currency, provided they buy and deposit with the treasury department an amount of government bonds equal to the amount of notes they put out and circulate as currency. Also, they have been allowed to receive deposits of government money in condition that they will convert them into gold or silver

On demand.

This has had the effect of making a market for government bonds, and has kept the price of the bonds high. It has also put pressure on the banks to issue paper currency at par for a long time. Lately, however, some of the banks which held the 2s began to question the uncertainty of keeping them in view of the uncertainties of forthcoming legislation.

Sales of the government 2s in the open market have continued in the declining price, from par, to near the end of these sales, and in the declining price, Mr. McAdoo professed to see a possibility of the government's forcing bankers to influence the course of legislation.

In an official statement Mr. McAdoo said that the government "certainly is not par, because they will be redeemed at par."

The average investor looks up the market price of the bonds, which cost him par and which yield this low return, and he finds that what he paid for them is worth $800 to $850 if he had to sell, that is what he would get—all he could get.

Q And these bonds are worth par, because they will be redeemed, will they fall due, at par." And he starts to put them away in his safe deposit box again.

A Then the thought occurs to him: "If I could actually sell these bonds far par now, I could reinvest the money in safe bonds yielding better than 5 per cent. So, though I know they will some time be paid at par, I am losing money by holding them. They are not worth par to me."

So the banks have reasoned—and it is logic which investors will use as long as they are interested in current income.

Sewanee Tried To Get Patton; Now Protests

Somewhat Out of Ordinary Run of Sportsmanship to Try to Land Player and Then Enter Protest

Despite the fierce weather of Monday afternoon the Yellowjackets were out in big numbers and had a stiff workout. There were two teams out for work, and for the first time this season a signal practice was run through with. All of the new material were out and several of the old heads from last year and though the rain was down in sheets and was extra cold, there was a lot of pep and spirit with the whole work.

The backfield that was working out and that looked good for any eastern team, was composed of Patton, Gardner, Brown and Cook, and McDonald. Patton, who is a hard-boiled good together, and they went about things in a way that made them out for business. There were about thirty men in the team, and by the end of the week they will be at least twenty or more candidates for positions. Examinations are still on and the players cannot come out for workouts until after the exam period closes with the end of this week. As yet the exam has not been divided into scrub and varsity, but this will be done within the next few days and then scrimmages will begin.

The main work that is being done at the present time is condition work. The players run down the field and punt, make to tackle each other and the dummy, play loop, pass the ball and any form of good exercise that comes to mind. However, there is something doing all the time and there are no rest periods from the time that they report until the quitting time comes.

The latest and most unexpected development in the football situation is the move from Chattanooga that drew from the Atlanta Athletic and one of the assistant coaches on the team. VIRGINIA CLUB OWNERS NOW SEEKING MANAGERS

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 16.—With the Virginia league season a matter of history, the owners of the several teams have already begun to cast about for managerial talent for 1914 and the early indications are that there will be a most general search for next year.

To start with, the Lynchburg team, which was managed by the late Harry Matthews, is now in the hands of the new owners. The team is now in the hands of the new owners, and they are looking for a new manager. The team is now in the hands of the new owners, and they are looking for a new manager.

NATIONAL

The Philadelphia and Cleveland Americans fell down a bit, the Mack men, however, not being worried owing to the fact that the Naps failed to show anything and draw closer. The Washington club did the good work of the week among the losers by winning five games and losing only two, and most of the wins were over Cleveland, which team is fighting it out for the place with the back of Walter Johnson.

Vandy is Weak; Practice Begun

Carrigan Out For the Season

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The Boston Americans will be without the playing assistance of Manager Carrigan as a result of an accident Monday when he had the middle finger of his throwing hand broken during the game with St. Louis. Carrigan will be unable to play again this season and in all probability will not be able to take an active part in the post-season series with the Boston Nationals.

Last Shot Decided

SEASIDE, N. J., Sept. 16.—The last shot fired in the Liberty trophy match decided the event. Sergeant Nordstrom, of the United States marine corps, with a score of 92, took first honors. Most of the contestants, believing that Captain Clepton, of the Fifteenth United States Cavalry, was the best shot, were surprised when the winner, left the range before Nordstrom finished.

Where They Play

The National league during the past week the leading clubs kept up their thrilling race and boosted their percentages while in the American circuit it was just the opposite, the top notches slightly falling off in their work while the second division bunches came fast and moved up the ladder considerably, so far as the figures go.

STARS OF MINORS GO TO THE MAJOR LEAGUE

START MADE BY GOLFERS IN TOURNEY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 16.—An early autumn frost was still whitening the greenward of the famous course of the Country club when the first balls were driven across the old polo field today in the nineteenth open golf championship of the United States.

There were several hundred spectators on the club terrace. The field today was limited to half the entry list which this year reached a record of 179. Beside the interest aroused by the presence of Vardon, Ray, Reid, Traill and other foreign players, there was considerable speculation at the start as to the probable standing on Friday of the three American-bred stars, John J. McDermott, of Philadelphia, of Atlantic City and present title holder; Tom McNamee, of Boston, and J. H. Wadsworth, of Philadelphia, all of whom played in British championships at Hoylake and Walsingham last year.

On Thursday the best thirty-two scores in each day's play in the customary seventy-two-hole medal play contest for the championship.

Real Football Weather Here and Tech Players Begin Work

KNOB THOUGHT HE SLIPPED ONE OVER ON THE CHINK

---BY FARREN

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE ANNUAL CHORUS
Hark! how the doleful, anguished sound
From west to easters campus ground:
Poor Yalevard couldn't beat a drum—
Her line is weak—her backs are hum!
The Harvard squad is on the frim
And every coach is leaving his Nineteen are crippled—heavy crimp—
And sixteen more are on the limp.

Alas for Penetion—on the dead
"She couldn't trim a flower bed!"
"And old Chisno—boly smoke!"
From end to end her line's a joke!
Wisconsin loses twelve star men
Who probably won't get back again!
"At Michigan in dumb despair from Coach Host is yanking out his hair."

O doleful wall—O anguished sound
From campus ground to campus ground:
Where scrub eleven in great glee
Are mopping up the Varsity;
Some day, if they keep up these tears,
In ten or fifteen thousand years,
They'll slip across a "wrecked team" bet
And fool some Sewing Circle yet.

It will be a sad day for Giants and Athletics to lose their pennants as it will be for a Turkey-trotter to dance his way into Heaven through the eye of a needle—doing the Kitchen Sink as he takes the opening.

THAT DOPE AGAIN.
After wide spring discussion as to whether Mathewson, Marquard, Chesney, Hendrix, Seaton or Alexander would lead National league slabs this spring a Mr. Al Demaree and a Mr. Bert Humphries quietly assumed out and strangled ten leagues away from the field. And last April they were as widely known to the special potentate who rules over his broad dominion of lower Uganda.

There may have been a greater young pitcher than Tex Russell to look in but for local use we can't recall his name. Still the dope at our command only covers the last thirty-seven years. This may account for our lack of knowledge in the case.

THE CLOSING DEBATE.
If there is to be any last lingering rebuttal in the American league now we shall have the ultimate reply by Tuesday when the Naps wind up their series with the Mackoons.
The closing words of the debate start Saturday. If Cleveland is to prolong the struggle the trip can be easily turned through the mere detail of beating the Athletics all three games. Beyond this task—a but a holiday outing, a mere childish romp.

A South Carolinian writes us that if Jackson beats out Cobb his state will not only annex Georgia but in addition will make Georgia's citizens pay a heavy indemnity and remain as serfs and vassals for years to come.
At that stage commonwealths have come to war over less things than rival hitting acts.

"What," asks a reader or at least a writer, "is Harry Vardon's most useful stroke?"
We should say, after watching him play a round or two, it was shooting the ball within three inches of where he wanted it to go.

There's another clutch bet we overlooked. We might have placed a thousand or so last spring that the Cubs under Evers would beat out the Pirates under Clarke. Strange that we never thought of it at the time.

Idea About Hitting at GOLF and Through Golf Ball

The average player fails to get proper results through a mistaken notion that the golfing stroke consists in hitting the ball. He fails to realize that in most not only hit "at" but "through" the ball if he would ever approach the standard of those who consistently drive far and sure. The clearest way to explain the difference between hitting "at" as contrasted with hitting "through" the ball is to imagine a machine carefully adjusted so as to stop immediately on reaching an object and not adjusted to continue the blow until the object had been propelled into the air.

Scientific investigation and experiment proves that a golf ball rattons out the fraction of a second it is hit and followed by the club head and that added force gives it the own resiliency in springing from the club head. If the club head stops short after hitting the ball loss of distance and accuracy result.

If you have ever closely studied the swing and stroke of the professional expert amateurs you will have discovered that they get the greatest amount of speed into their stroke without contact and follow through. The club starts down steadily attaining speed. During the last few inches of the ball, when the club head is traveling at maximum speed.

Weak or defective driving is largely a matter of what is known as poor time.
The speed is developed too soon and a mistake noticed too late of a beautiful effort must get the club and across traveling at full speed as the club starts down. Then, each extra stroke, giving it the speed and power to the ground and through the ball in the distance of the hole.

TY COBB DEFIES BAN JOHNSON; WILL WRITE ARTICLES ON SERIES

Detroit Star Indicates That He Will Continue to Turn Out Baseball Stories

Ty Cobb will defy Ban Johnson, president of the American league, recognized as the czar of baseball, because of the way he handles the national commission.

The "Georgia Peach" intends to "write for the papers" before and during the world's series. To use his own words, Ty intends to "cop all the coin I can while the copping is good."

He refuses to abide by the edict of the American league head that no ball player in his league shall permit his name to be used on articles appearing in newspapers or to write for them.

In the only interview he has granted on this subject Ty Cobb told The Journal correspondent that his baseball reputation and his own property, and that so long as they are in demand he will accept hard, cold currency in exchange for them—coupled with his ability to write as a commodity.

Cobb says he will write several articles under his own name on the approaching world's series.

"I have written my own 'stuff,'" declared Ty Cobb, "and there is nothing in the world to prevent me using my knowledge of the game and whatever writing ability I possess to bring home the dollars, after the playing season is over."

"It is just as legitimate for me to earn money by writing as it is for other players to earn money by playing. I consider legitimate. I know I have the support of practically every ball player in the country."

McCormack Champ At Broncho Busting
PENDINGTON, Ore., Sept. 14.—The broncho busting championship of the world was settled here Sunday night. A. McCormack, of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Bob Cavin, of Caldwell, Idaho, tied for the honor. McCormack, who was the champion of the world, won the title by winning each heat in the three dashes.

Mr. Blaneett, on Rambling Sam, was badly defeated for the championship of the world in the cowgirls' bucking contest by Nettie Howe, of Fresno, Cal., on Snake. Wallie Padgett, of Cheyenne, Wyo., won the world's championship by bull-dogging in 1:47.

Coombs Takes Treatment
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—"Jack" Coombs, star pitcher of the Athletics baseball club and hero of two world's series, is in the University hospital. Muscles of the pitcher's ball, weakened by a recent attack of typhoid fever, physicians say, were unable to stand the strain in his attempts to work into condition and he may be placed in a plaster cast for several weeks.

Physicians at the hospital say that in rare instances following a severe attack of typhoid fever muscles of the body have been known to stretch. An X-ray photograph of the injured muscles will be taken today and a final decision made as to the need for the cast.

McDevitt Coaches
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 14.—E. W. McDevitt, former linebacker on the Yale football team, will be assistant coach at the University of Minnesota, according to an announcement made today.

AMERICANS BUSILY ENGAGED BUILDING THE CUP CRAFTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—O. M. Pynchon and two other well known yachtsmen are to build our America's cup defender, and Herreshoff is now at work on the plan. The defense of the America's cup is a lively topic with the yachtsmen, and Nat Herreshoff, the well known designer, sailed with the New York Yacht club fleet on its recent cruise on board his yacht Helianthus.

Herreshoff is at work on the plans for two yachts. At one time he declined to build more than one defender, but he has been prevailed on to undertake two boats. These two do not doubt will be vastly different in model, size and sail plan, and the other a larger yacht with much more driving power.

With G. M. Pynchon in charge of one defender, the yacht will be well manned and well handled. He will be associated with two well known racing men who for the present wish to be unknown, but they are prominent in the sport.

Mr. Pynchon began his racing with the sixty-foot speed Noels, which was built by a well known shipyard company several years ago. The other boat in the class was the Westmore.

Indianapolis Wins Federal Pennant

(By Associated Press.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14.—The Federal league, said to be the first independent baseball organization to complete its full schedule, closed its first season with Indianapolis club winner of the pennant.
The club owners will meet in Indianapolis September 20 to award the pennant and elect officers.
It is reported a new president will be named to succeed John T. Powers, of Chicago, the organizer of the league, who some time ago was given an extended leave of absence. The question of making the league an eight-club circuit also, probably will be decided.
The Indianapolis team finished eleven ahead of the nearest opponent, Cleveland. The other clubs finished in order, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and Pittsburgh.
